MTHA looks to boost Maryland-bred program

When slots money begins rolling in, the earnings potential for Maryland-breds at Laurel and Pimlico will receive an extra boost, thanks to a proposed plan involving the MTHA and Maryland Horse Breeders Association (MHBA).

"Details are still being worked out," said MTHA President Richard Hoffberger. "But the goals are clear—they are to enhance the racing program, increase the value of our Maryland-bred product and develop a productive working relationship between the two groups."

The new initiative will involve purse enhancements for Maryland-breds in overnight races. Supported in principle by the MTHA's Negotiating Committee led by Dale Capuano, it is awaiting ratification by the MTHA Board.

It will be funded in part by a portion of slots revenue that was redirected to the Purse Account during the 2009 legislative session to correct an anomaly in the original slots bill.

"Whereas that money was once a source of bitter dispute between the MTHA and MHBA," said Mr. Hoffberger, "we hope it will become part of the foundation for a prosperous future for both horsemen and breeders."

Live racing returns to Maryland on August 1

Live racing will return to Maryland sooner than expected, on August 1, with an 11-day mini-meet at Laurel Park.

Racing at Laurel will continue through August 23, on a three-day-a-week schedule, Fridays through Sundays.

The summer/fall racing program was developed with input from the MTHA's Negotiating Committee chaired by Dale Capuano and also consisting of MTHA President Richard Hoffberger, and Directors John Alecci, John Robb and Katy Voss.

Following a break for the Timonium meet (August 28 through September 7), racing will resume at Laurel on September 12 and run through December 19. It will be conducted four days a week, Wednesdays through Saturdays.

The program calls for 68 live racing days at Laurel through the end of the year.

Highlighting the fall season will be the return of the Grade 1 Frank J. De Francis Memorial Dash, with a purse of $300,000-guaranteed, at a date to be determined, and Maryland Million Day on September 26.

Except for Maryland Fund races, no other stakes will be offered.

Laurel's turf course is expected to be in prime condition throughout the summer and fall, and will be utilized to the full benefit of horsemen and fans.

"Under the present economic circumstances, we believe this arrangement provides the maximum possible opportunities for horsemen," said Mr. Hoffberger. "Our summer break started early this year, with Pimlico closing on May 23. So fans and horsemen should be more than ready to be back when racing resumes."

Trainer James W. Murphy reflected honor on his profession

James W. Murphy

One of Maryland's most respected trainers, James W. (Jimmy) Murphy, died on June 13 at the age of 82.

A native of Milwaukee, Mr. Murphy was a top show rider in his youth, as well as a successful steeplechase rider. He served in the Army during World War II.

Since launching his training career in 1965, he was credited with more than 100 stakes wins. His best runners included Grade 1 stars Bemo and Bring Out the Band; Delicate, winner of the 1982 Black-Eyed Susan Stakes-G2; Double Sixes, who won the 1994 Pimlico Distaff Handicap-G3; and multiple stakes winner Horatius, who went on to a long and successful stud career in Maryland.

In 2006, the MTHA honored Mr. Murphy as Outstanding Maryland Trainer. A mentor to younger horsemen at his longtime base at Laurel Park, Mr. Murphy saddled the first winner over the rebuilt Laurel track in January 2005. He continued to oversee his stable until a few days before his death.

Rosecroft's owner files for bankruptcy

While its demand for simulcasts of Thoroughbred races is still tied up in court, Rosecroft Raceway's owner, Cloverleaf Enterprises, Inc., has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

The filing took place on June 3.

Cloverleaf's bankruptcy proceeding is unusual in that its stated assets exceed its debts.

Assets for the owner of the harness track in Oxon Hill, Md., are estimated at between $10 million and $50 million, and its financial liabilities between $1 million and $10 million.

"This complicates an already murky situation," said MTHA President Richard Hoffberger.

The MTHA, along with the Maryland Jockey Club and Maryland Horse Breeders Association, continues to seek to reclaim fees that Cloverleaf owes for simulcasting of Thoroughbred races.

An industrywide 15-year agreement signed in April 2006 calls for Cloverleaf to pay $5.9 million a year for the right to receive Thoroughbred signals. Cloverleaf has paid nothing since December 31, 2008.

Based on Cloverleaf's refusal to live up to the deal, the Maryland Racing Commission withdrew permission for Thoroughbred simulcasting into Rosecroft as of late April.

Cloverleaf subsequently obtained an injunction that has made it possible to receive a few Thoroughbred signals.

Options for horses who can no longer race

voked on the spot.

The MTHA has compiled a list of retirement/rescue facilities in Maryland. It was printed in last month's newsletter, and is posted at www.mdhorsemen.com. The list, while extensive, will never be complete. Other facilities are no doubt out there doing the same kind of work, with less publicity. With a little effort, owners and trainers can find the right place for an individual horse.

The point is—a viable market exists for Thoroughbreds who can no longer race. That might not have been true five years ago but times have changed, in this case much for the better.

As owners or trainers, we have a serious responsibility. The fate of our horses is in our hands not just while they are with us, but often far beyond. They place their trust in us, and we owe them a good life in return.

Thoughts and comment

High-strung. Burned out. Crippled. For too long this was the image that many people had of ex-race horses—and the reason why some people shied away from adopting them and converting them to new careers.

Thankfully, more people seem to be catching on to the fact that most Thoroughbred race horses can have a productive and rewarding life beyond the track.

All it takes, in most instances, is a reasonable amount of patience and the right kind of re-training. When knowledgeable people are directing the transition, the chances of success are very good.

The increasing number of people willing to take on ex-race horses is good news for our industry.

Today, it's much easier to do the right thing and find a good home for a horse who can no longer race. In fact, it may be easier to find a new home than to send a horse to the killers.

And Magna's policy reinforces the point for trainers who choose to ignore humane options: A trainer at Laurel or Bowie found sending a horse to slaughter will have his stabling privileges re-
